BLAME MOTORIST AND PEDESTRIANS FOR ACCIDENTS

Writer Says America's Huge Traffic Toll Could Be Prevented By Greater Care On Part Of Both

AUTO FATALITY RATIO GROWING IN PROPORTION

By Philip J. Sinnott

Chicago, Dec. 1.—America's huge traffic toll is preventable.

Traffic experts throughout the country agree on this. And yet, this year 53,000 persons will be killed or injured in auto accidents and more than a billion dollars in property will be destroyed.

Furthermore, the automobile fatality ratio is mounting steadily in proportion to the growth in the number of automobiles operated. As the nation is only 60 per cent supplied with automobiles that will eventually be in operation, the appalling death and accident rate of today threatens to be doubled unless strict regulations, education of drivers and publisc, newer traffic control devices and similar measures now in effect bring relief.

In 1906, there were fewer than 400 deaths from automobile accidents. Last year, 11,024 were killed, an increase of 2750 per cent. Two-thirds of all traffic accidents occur in cities of 10,000 or more.

American traffic regulations have not kept up with the phenomenal increase in the number of autos. The streets were laid out in the days of horse drawn vehicles. Persons driving around then were familar with their surroundings, knew every rut in the road and what to avoid.

Now, however, America's traffic has increased enormously. It is traveling at several times the former rate of speed. And the limitations placed on distance traversed has been wiped out until intercity and interstate trips are the rule.

Confusing Regulations.

The result is confusion, due to conflicting traffic regulations in different states and cities, which lead to accidents. Unfamiliarity with danger points in strange towns is another cause, while the careless motorist roaring through small communities on his way to larger cities, has become one of the big killers.

To successfully combat the growing menace of automobile accidents, the causes must be studied and removed. There are not many unavoidable accidents. A check on automobile accidents shows practically all of them due to some of the following causes:

Careless drivers
Intoxication
Disregard or ignorance of traffic laws
Poorly lighted streets
Speeding
Playing in streets
Careless pedestrians
Defective brakes
Attempts to pass two vehicles going in the same direction which are nearly abreast.

Intoxicated drivers are one of the worst menaces to life and limb that authorities have to deal with, they say. Such drivers are not only imbued with the speed mania but they take the most hazardous chances, while frequently their condition causes them to drive through safety zones, on sidewalks and even into buildings.

Pedestrians' Faults

The pedestrian is in many cases to blame, through carelessly stepping from the curb into moving traffic, running across the street behind a street car and otherwise failing to use proper caution.

Children especially present a serious problem. One-third of those killed by automobiles are children, and in a majority of cases, they were struck down when they suddenly rushed down into the path of an auto or were playing in the street.

Educational work in the schools and homes is now looked for to lessening of this danger. At the same time, drivers are obeing schooled to slow down and have their cars under absolute control when they pass playing children.

MEXICO CITY HEARS ITS FIRST CONCERT BY RADIO

By Associated Press.

Mexico City, Dec. 1.—Newspaper reports that a concert given recently in San Antino, Texas, was plainly audible to a select gathering in Mexico City by means of the radio telephone, having created a great local interest in this newest means of communication.

Numerous inquiries have been made at government departments and of merchants as to the cost of delivery of the necessary apparatus to equip private plants. Hitherto there has been but one scant interest in Mexico in radia, although for several months a local newspaper has maintained a plant which picks up many press messages, particularly those furnished by ships at sea by the United States Navy department.

GOVERNOR PARDONS RICH COMMUNIST

W. B. Lloyd Says Has Not Changed Views—Admits U. S. Not Ripe For Drastic Change.

By Associated Press

CHICAGO, Dec. 1.—William Bross Lloyd, millionaire communist released Wednesday night by Governor Small's pardon from a prison sentence of one to five years for violation of the state anti-sydicalism act, declared today that he had not changed his views. "I still believe and still have faith," he said. "The American people are not yet ripe for a drastic change in government but it may come in five years or in one hundred. It is a matter of evolution and experience."

TO USE RADIO IN MINE DISASTERS

Bureau Of Mines Tells Of Value Of Wireless In Effective Rescues After Explosives.

By Associated Press.

Washington, Dec. 1.—Radio communication between rescuers on the surface and miners entombed in mines following fires and explosions, is a hope held out by the United States Bureau of Mines, to lessen the horrors and losses of mine disasters. Preliminary tests conducted by the Bureau, with the cooperation of a great electrical manufacturing concern, in an experimental mine at Bruceton, Pennsylvania, already have resulted in a degree of success.

While these experiments have so far failed to develop any practical method of using wireless waves for underground communication, nevertheless, says a publication of the Mines Bureau, they indicate clearly that electromagnetic waves may be made to travel thru solid strata. In the Bruceton experiments signals were heard distinctly through fifty feet of coal strata, although the audibility fell off rapidly as the distance was increased. The absorption of loss of intensity with distance is very great for the short wave lengths used in these tests. Longer wave lengths are known to suffer less absorption and may possibly be found practically effective under certain conditions.

In this connection it is interesting to note tests conducted by the United States States bureau of standards deep, unused oil wells to underlying rock strata, in order to send the wireless impulses through the rock instead of through the air. The results, it is believed, may be the same as projecting the antenae upward into the air.

The desirability of substituting the wireless system of communication for the present telephone systems in use in mines is evident inconsidering that a rock fall or explosion, by breaking wire connections can put the entire system out of order.

British Royalty Discards Horse.

London, Dec. 1.—The famous royal stables at Buckingham palace, known as The Mews, are to be demolished. In their stead wil be built a modern garage large enough to care for the numerous automobiles of the royal family.

British In Tilt Over Divorce

DUKE AND DUCHESS OF MARLBOROUGH

By Milton Bronner

London, Dec. 1.—Shall the church or state rule in England in the matter of divorce?

The Angelican Church which has official status here, forbids the remarriage of divorced persons.

The civil authorities permit such remarriage.

Both civil and church heads today are demanding a showdown on the question and the Duke of Marlborough, former husband of Consuela Vanderbilt, is the center of the unique tilt.

It all started when Consuelo divorced Marlborough. Marlborough then married Miss Gladys Deacon, also an American heiress.

The bishop of Oxford immediately declared Marlborough could not be a communicant of the Church of England and barred him from attending the Oxford Diocesan Conference of which Marlborough is a member by hereditary right.

Marlborough, though he cared little about the right of attending the conference, was nettled when he was barred. He's now demanding that the church recoguize him as a communicant.

Marlborough and his friends maintain that the Church of England, which is supported by the state, is refusing to recognize laws passed by the state and especially laws passed by Parliament, in the upper house of which bishops of the Established Church sit as legislators.

MINSTREL SHOW BY ELKS DECEMBER 11

Local Talent Specialty Acts To Be Included in Entertainment Directed by Gov. Bowen.

A big minstrel show will be given at the Manring Theater Monday night, December 11, under the auspices of the local chapter of Elks. This is the only show which will be given in Middlesboro before the first of the year. The show will later be taken to Harlan and Lynch.

The show is being put on under the direction of Gov. Bowen, noted comedian for many years of Al G. Fields, and his troupe, paraphernalia, scenery, costumes, etc. Mr. Bowen comes from Winchester. He directed the Elks minstrel last year. This year he has entirely new costumes and material of every kind, and the available talent promises to be better than ever before. A good number of specialty acts and choruses of local talent are being planned.

Tickets will be sold next week and may be exchanged for reservations at Lee's, beginning Thursday. Entertainment is being planned for parties to come from Harlan, Corbin, Lynch and Pineville.

Rehearsal will be held each night, beginning tonight, at the Elks home, at 7:30 p. m.

AUSTRALIAN RAILROAD TO OPEN RICH COUNTRY

By Associated Press.

Adelaide, South Australia, Dec. 1.—The new Oodnadatta railway will bee built into the center of the Australian continent and through the richest mineral and greatest pastoral section of the country, according to an announcement by the Minister of Home and Territories.

This will be the first step of a plan to cover every section, including the vast deserts, with railroads which will not only facilitate commerce, but also form a defensive barrier for the Australian coast line.

Anti-Saloon League Says Investigating Commission Is Inspired by Wet Interests.

By Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1.—The Anti-Saloon League is opposed to the proposal of Congress to appoint a "scientific commission to determine what is intoxicating liquor" with a view to possible amendment of the Volstead Act. Wayne B. Wheeler, general counsel of the league, said the move was inspired by wet interests, which, Wheeler said, intended to "confuse the issue, break down law enforcement and ultimately secure the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment."

REPRESENTATIVE J. R. MANN DIES

Veteran Chicago Congressman, "Giant of the House," in Public Life Since 1897.

By Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1.—Funeral services for Representative James R. Mann, Second Illinois district, long rated as the giant of the House, will be held in Representatives' chamber tomorrow afternoon. The body will be taken to Chicago for interment.

By Associated Press

CHICAGO, Dec. 1.—James R. Mann, Chicago's veteran Congressman, was born on a farm near Bloomington, Il., October 1856. For the last quarter of a century he devoted his life almost exclusively to national legislation. His first public service began in the village of Hyde Park when he became alderman. His service in Congress began in 1897 and has been continuous. Only one of the many laws he had much to do with framing, the Mann Act, has borne his name. He is survived by his widow.

EDUCATOR URGES REFORM TO FIT STUDENT FOR JOB

United States Needs Drastic Change In Whole School System — Advises Shorter Elementary Education

INDEPENDENT STUDY SHOULD START EARLY AS POSSIBLE

Buffalo, N. Y., Dec. 1.—"The United States faces the need of a drastic and thorough-going reform of its whole scheme of education, that our children and our youth may be more effectively trained, and that time may be saved in the process."

This is the declaration of Dr. Samuel P. Capen, chancellor of the University of Buffalo and formerly director of the American Council of Education.

Dr. Capen is considered one of the nation's foremost educators. In addition to directing the education council, he has been specialist in higher education in the United States Bu-

SMALL HOPE HELD FOR SHIP SUBSIDY

"Counting Of Noses" Shows Little Chance For Administration Measure.

Washington, Dec. 1.—Despite all possible administration pressure, all possible trading for support, and all pledeges of soft berths for lame ducks a counting of noses in the United States Senate shows unmistakably a hard row ahead for the president's ship subsidy bill, which Congress was called into special session to enact.

The probabilities of success appear to be unquestionably on the side of the opponents rather than of the supporters of the bill. This for the reason that they have a double chance to defeat its passage. First, by actually voting it down if it develops they can muster enough votes to accomplish that end. Second, by prolonging debate and preventing a vote by March 4, if it appears they might not be able to slaughter it on the roll call.

Here, in a nutshell, is the situation, the administration forces are up against:

Nine progressive Republicans are so definitely committed against the measure that no possible trade or inducement can swing them to its support. These are Borah, Capper, Ladd, La Follette, Lenroot, Norbeck, Norris, McNary and Brookhart.

That makes a total of 45 votes definitely arrayed against subsidy. Due to the vacancy caused by the resignation of Newberry, it leaves just 50 votes as the greatest possible total for the bill.

In the remaining 50, there are at least seven who may be classed as doubtful. These are Cummins of Iowa, Curtis of Kansas, Ernst of Kentucky, Harreld of Oklahoma, McCumber of North Dakota, Nelson of Minnesota, Sterling of South Dakota.

The opponents, however, propose that no vote shall be reached. It is only three months till the present congress dies. The new Congress will be definitely anti-subsidy.

And to even a handful of hostile senators, a three-months filibuster is no discouraging thing. With 45 senators definitely oppoking, the chances of the subsidy bill coming to a vote in the senate appears extremely unlikely.

MANY ATTEND CHRISTIAN THANKSGIVING SERVICE

A large number of persons attended the Christian church Thanksgiving services yesterday morning, including many not members of that church. This was the only regular church service with sermon held on Thanksgiving Day.

Te Rev. A. B. Reeves, pastor of the church, preached a Thanksgiving sermon, and Mrs. J. W. Charlton sang a solo. An offering was taken to be equally divided between the Salvation Army and the Red Cross.

NO ARRESTS YET FOR KILLING AT HARLAN TUESDAY

Officer Angel and Other Members of Ball Family Witnesses—Say Sid Ball Started The Shooting.

LLOYD BALL'S BROTHER DIES OF TUBERCULOSIS THIS WEEK

HARLAN, Dec. 1.—No arrests have been made in connection with the tragedy which took place here Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. Ball, widow of Lloyd Ball who was shot to death, is said to have been in the room when the shooting occurred, as well as Orie Angel, the policeman who accompanied Chief Pope to the Ball home.

Angel, who mysteriously escaped being wounded, says that when he and Chief Ball stepped up to the front door and knocked, Lloyd Ball came to the door and when told by Pope they had come to arrest the two boys who had been reported as drunk, Lloyd Ball told them that the boys were still drunk and to let them stay there at the house until they were sober, and that he would bring them to police headquarters the next morning. Chief Pope said he would take the boys as they were and walked up to Dan Ball and searched him after which young Ball sat down in a chair. Pope stooped over and is said to have picked up a bag containing whiskey and started for the door.

About this time Sid Ball, son of Lloyd Ball, is said to have entered the room and begun firing. Angel grappled with him and attempted to get possession of the pistol. He did not have a chance to draw his own gun. Angel was not wounded and the bullet which killed young Ball is believed to have come from his own pistol. It seems that Pope was shot as he stepped out of the door and about this time Lloyd Ball fell across the body of his son at the foot of the stairway, mortally wounded.

The Ball family left with the dead men Wednesday morning for Ages where the burial took place. They could not be seen today, and Angel, the only other eye witness, related the foregoing happenings.

Sorrow was added to the survivors of the Ball family by the death of Leonard Ball, a brother of Lloyd Ball, at the Harlan hospital where he has been very ill of tuberculosis. He is survived by a large family also.

Captain Pope was taken to the home of his parents at Wasioto for burial.

The Pope and Ball families are said to be slightly related. The Balls, whose ancestors came from Lee county, Virginia, several years ago, are related to Ball families of Bell county.

Pope's Funeral at Wasioto.

PINEVILLE, Dec. 1.—Funeral services for James C. Pope, chief of police of Harlan who was killed in the pistol battle at Harlan Tuesday afternoon, were held Thursday morning at 11 o'clock at the Wasioto cemetery. The burial services were in charge of the Harlan Lodge Scottish Rites Masons, assisted by the Bell Lodge. Mr. Pope was an ex-service man with an overseas record, having received several decorations for bravery in action. He was buried in his army uniform.

Hoover Says Public By Then Will Appreciate Sane Policy of Administration.

By Associated Press

PALO ALTO, Cal., Dec. 1.—The Republican presidential candidate in 1924 will "obviously be Warren G. Harding," said Herbert G. Hoover, secretary of commerce, in a statement here today.

Moreover, by 1924, Hoover said, the "public will be highly appreciative of the sanity and progressive character of the policies that have brought this country through the reconstruction period."

MEETING TODAY PRELIMINARY TO NEW ORGANIZATION

Principal Element of Conference Farmer and Labor—Proposed Industrial, Economic, Political Reforms.

MANY REGARD AS GERM OF THIRD PARTY MOVEMENT

By Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1.—A movement to organize a "progressive bloc" in Congress took definite form today at a conference behind closed doors, attended by a score of Senators and Representatives. The meeting was preliminary to a general conference tomorrow of progressive leaders. The principal element of today's meeting were farmer and labor interests. This is regarded in some quarters as the germ of a possible third party movement, but Senator La Follette, one of the prime movers, disclaimed any intention to break up present party lines.

Senator Norris, Republican, Nebraska, was elected chairman of today's meeting which was attended by Senators La Follette, Borah, Capper, Ladd, McNary, Owen and Sheppard, and about twenty Representatives. Resolutions were adopted declaring their purpose was to form a bloc to "drive special privilege out of control and work for legislation affecting agriculture, labor, railroads, shipping, natural resources, credits and taxation." It also proposed to abolish the electoral college and initiate a national campaign for direct primary election of state and Federal officers.

SMUGGLING OUT OF GERMANY IS A BATTLE OF WITS

By Associated Press.

Dresden, Germany, Dec. 1.—Fresh instances of ingenuity are brought to light daily in the battle of wits which Germany's border officials are waging against smuggiers.

On the Bohemian line the authorities operated for a time on the principle that every German coat has, or should have, a German lining. They previously had lost much time in arguing with travellers as to whether or not the clothing in their possession had been brought in with them, or was of material newly acquired in Germany. These discussions were abviated finally by stamping the linings of all articles of clothing at the time of entry into the country.

Smugglers were not slow to vitiate this means of identification. They had a double lining put into their old wearing apparel. After the top one had been stamped; it was used for any new article of clothing later purchased in Germany. When the officials detected this circumvention of their scheme, the stamping was abandoned. Instead, expert German tailors are now engaged on the customs staffs to examine al clothing, and establish its place of origin.

GILLIS CARTER SHOT LAST NIGHT—NO HOPE FOR RECOVERY

Gillis Carter of Little Clear Creek was shot and probably fatally injured last night at 11 o'clock by his father-in-law, Lee Thomas Mason. Carter came to Mason's house, according to Mason and his wife, when they were both in bed, about 11 o'clock, and began shooting with his Winchester. Mason could not get up but reached under his pillow, got his revolver and shot Carter four times. Mason gave himself up but the general belief is that he shot in self-defense. Relatives started to take Carter to the Pineville hospital this afternoon but the doctor said this was useless as there is no hope for the man. Carter has several children.

Mistake in Football Score.

The Daily News reporter, seeking to get the football story in so as not to delay the press, left the field a few minutes before the game was over and so missed the last touchdown by Pineville. The first 300 papers, including Pineville's allotment, carried a score 34 to 7. Then the real score was ascertained and changed to 41 to 7.

A THOUGHT

Finally, my brethren, be strong in the Lord, and as the power of His might. Ephesians 6:10.

This is the gospel of Labor—
Ring it, ye bells of the kirk!
The lord of love came down from above
To live with the men who work
This is th rose he planted
Here in the thorn-cursed soil;
Heaven is blest with perfect rest,
But the blessing of earth is toil.
—Henry Van Dyke.

AN EBIDING VISION

Alphouse Dumaine writes to the Springfield, Mass., Republican:

Woodrow Wilson begged us to save Europe in the name of God and humanity. Clemenceau asks us in the name of France. Who is so rudely frank as to approach us in the name of our own selfish interests? "I look upon all men as my compatriots," observes Montagne from his summit. This view should enlighten those of smaller stature who cannot see beyond the horizon.

Nationalism has its high value, but there are causes so common to all mankind, so vital to the well-bing of peoples everywhere, that to become international in vision and in sympathy is to become human in contradistinction from being brutal.

One of these causes is connoted by the League of Nations. The vision of Wilson is the only vision, as Mr. Vanderlip pertinently remarks, that can save Europe. It is the only vision that can save a distressed world. The only reason that it has not been accepted by the party now in power in this country is that it is Wilson's vision.

The rigor of that insensate prejudice has already begun to relent. Even the Wilson-phobes are beginning to concede something of the spirit of the truth.—Courier-Journal.

WHEN YOU BUY

There's one retail store for every 40 families in America.

William G. Shepherd tells this to a convention or advertising men.

One groceryman in 20 fails each year.

In the long run, according to John Wanamaker, only one man in 25 who go into any kind of merchandising makes a success of it.

A fine thing to be in business for yourself—your own boss. But do a lot of thinking before you try it.

If you later on, start a store, what line of goods should you select to make the most money? This is your first thought, and an important one

But the number of dollars taken in by a merchant does not always determine how much profit he can make.

On the average, says Shepherd, to run a store takes 17 cents out of each dollar received by the grocer. Similar figures are 19 cents on $1 for butchers, 25 cents for hardware dealers, 21 cents for clothing sellers and 26 cents for shoe dealers.

The figures vary, according to the amount of sales. As a business grows, overhead expense is carried on the shoulders of an increasing number of dollars. This means, less overhead for each dollar to carry—provided overhead doesn't increase at a faster rate than gross sales, which it often does.

Shepherd calls America "a nation of counter jumpers." One worker in each 10 engaged in selling something. And two-thirds of these 3,000 sales clerks are engaged in selling food and clothing.

For each three farmers, there's one person behind a counter. For each four factory employes there's a store clerk or a store manager or a store owner, selling the things produced.

The trend seems to be toward a point where everyone will be distributing commodities nobody producing.

That point, of course, never will be reached, but the tendency toward it is strong enough to emphasize that our greatest problem of economics is one of distribution rather than production.

EDUCATOR URGES REFORM TO FIT STUDENT FOR JOB

ment of Education, and during the war assisted the National Defense Council and the War Department's committee on special training.

Dr. Capen suggests a process by which the student will be suitably fitted for the job he is to undertake on his graduation, by "job analysis". This he says, will set our children on the right road to their chosen trades or professions even before they enter college.

Faults of Modern Education.

Some of the things wrong with education, today, Dr. Capen lists as follows:

"1 The period devoted to elementary subjects is too long. Efficiency is offset by new subjects. Nor is there proof that such change has increased pupils' intellectual power.

"2 Secondary education begins too late and ends too soon. It is too diffuse and therefore superficial, producing very imperfectly for the preparation of those who straight-way must earn their living.

"3 Fifty per cent of the work done in colleges of arts and sciences rightly belongs in the secondary schools. Thus it becomes necessary to provide teaching methods and discipline in college for immature boys and girls, rather than for men and women seriously entering upon preparation for their life work. There is a great waste of time in college.

Reform Suggested.

"Ignoring for the moment the splendid achievements of the professional schools, the first thing demanding correction is the fact that Americans enter upon professional careers at least two years later than citizens of other countries. This delay constantly is being increased by professional interests themselves. These interests seek to extend the time devoted to training and impose higher requirements without reference to the effect on the educational scheme as a whole."

As improvements of our educational system, Dr. Capen suggests:

"Admission to college and continuance there should depend on a process of selection for more searching than any that now prevails.

"As early as possible in the college course there should be provision of opportunities for independent study for the definite mastery of some field of knowledge.

"The college should adopt all the means possible to place secondary education where it properly belongs, and enter into co-operation with the school system from which the majority of its students come."

RAINS AND SNOW STOP FOREST FIRES ON MOUNTAINS

The rains and snows of the last few days have put an end to the brilliant display of forest fires in massed and ringed formation which have been an admired spectacle for the past month on the mountain sides and mountain tops surrounding Middlesboro.

These fires, seemingly of a very destructive nature when view from a distance, have fortunately done little damage They have burned the leaves, rotten logs and trees, but have not injured the live trees or shrubs.

The fires are started by cigarette smoking hunters who carelessly throw lighted matches and burning cigarette stubs on the ground. Sparks from the trains also start a few of the fires, but in these cases the railroad section men put out the fires, generally before they have reached the dangerous stage

Some people think that the burning once or twice every year of the leaves, dead grass and shrubbery has a beneficial effect on the soil. Directly the opposite is true, according to authorities, since the leaves, grass and shrubs as they decay return to the soil forming nitrate and other chemicals which growing plans and crops require for their growth.

About the only benefit from these fires is the destruction of copperheads and rattlesnakes and their eggs.

FAMOUS FRA ANGELICA STOLEN IN FLORENCE

By Associated Press

Rome, Nov. 29.—The priceless picture of the Virgin and Child by Fra Angelico, signed and dated 1443, has been stolen from the Oratory of the St. Sebastian annex of the Church of St. Felix at Florence. The discovery of the loss was made when the church was opened in the morning, and all efforts to trace the thieves or discover how the theft was effected, have been unsuccessful.

The picture which has never left its position since the erection of the church in 1506, was one of the most valuable art treasures of Florence.

COAL SHORTAGE IN NORTHWEST SHOWN

By Associated Press

Duluth, Minn., Dec. 1.—Necessity for prolonging the Great Lakes shipping season beyond the date set for the formal close of navigation because of the shortage of coal receipts here for the Northwest supply and the subsequent inducements to be offered, is going to cause ship owners to speculate heavily by operating their boats after insurance has expired, declare local vesselmen.

December 10 is the date set for the formal close of navigation and on that date insurance on the vessels automatically expires, but shore extensions are made by the insurance companies on application. Beyond that extension operation is at the owners' risk.

The percentage of ship owners taking this risk usually is small, it was said, but every fall, due to desire to move special cargoes before the period of idleness sets in, several ships travel the ice filled lakes without insurance protection. Considering the value of the vessels which frequently run as high as $1,000,000 and that the cargo which sometimes reaches similar figures, local mariners term there undertakings "high finance."

Freed of the insurance premiums which usually run into the thousands and given an extra large fee for their cargoes, these skippers stand to clear large sums of money, some as high as $50,000 for one trip. Records here show most of these expeditions although completed under hazardous conditions, usually are successfully made. Weather conditions so far have led vesselmen to believe that there will be on extremely late winter on the lakes.

Deep Water

BY ZOE BECKLEY

After securing his passage on the Zeeland, Barrett went to the office of his personal lawer.

"Allison, I'm leaving for Europe tomorrow," he told the kind, but grave old senior partner. "I'll be gone long enough for grounds for a suit for divorce by my wife. Desertion, of course. I want you to do everything legitimate to facilitate the action."

The old man rose hastily, agitated, profoundly troubled.

"Why, John Barrett. I didn't know—never dreamed—have you thought this over—have you considered—"

"Everything. Meanwhile see that my family has everything of mine but the bare necessities of my travel abroad. Get together with Rex Warren, my wife's lawyer. Have things go through with as little distress to Anita as possible."

Allison drummed his fingers.

"Just a minute, Barrett. Aren't you lacking in frankness just a little. I'm an old man; I can talk to you plainly. What am I to say to the people who mention Myra Dean? Now, Barrett, everyone knows she is going tomorrow too—it was in the papers. Big newspaper assignment. Far East or somewhere."

Damn it, Allison, how dare—"

"That will not answer the question tomorrow any more than it does now. People dare any gossip in such cases. I couldn't take your case on any such grounds as desertion when it's known that you and Miss Dean left for Europe the same day. Why, your wife don't need to stir out of the state to bring suit—"

Barrett leaped to his feet.

"Miss Dean sails on the Cedric for the Balkan States I am booked on the Zeeland for Holland."

Old Allison shrugged a thin shoulder.

"Theoretically that ought to make a difference."

"You mean you don't believe me?"

"I mean that others will not."

"Then they will have to make the best of their doubts. Goodby!"

Barrett had come so close to changing his mind under Allison's terse arguments that he rushed to Myra for support it would give him merely to see her for a temporary farewell.

He found her little house locked and boarded up, not a soul about. She had deliberately run away from him.

The Green Wizard was so kind and did so many nice things for everybody that he was very popular.

This made Twelve Toes, the Sorcerer, more angry and jealous than ever. So he called Light Fingers, the bad little fairy who worked for him, and gave him a good talking to.

"You're not doing your work half," growled Twelve Toes. "Whenever you see the Green Wizard doing anyone a good turn you must stop it. What's he doing now?"

"Please, sir," said Light Fingers, "he's making some magic cough drops for Phil Frog. Phil Frog wrote him a letter and said he couldn't sing any pretty tunes as his voice was so hoarse. All he can say is ker-chug-a-lunk and he's tired of it, he says. So the Green Wizard is making him some magic cough drops so he can sing like a skylark or a nightingale. Nancy and Nick are waiting. When the cough drops are finished, off they'll go to Ripple Creek with them."

"H'm!" said Twelve Toes. "That won't do."

So he went into his cave and returned with a box.

"Take this," he said to Light Fingers, "and when the Twins are not looking, exchange it for the box of magic cough drops."

Everything came to pass just as Twelve Toes wished and when Nancy and Nick left the package at Phil Frog's house, they never dreamed that it was not the one the Green Wizard had given them.

Phil ate a lot of the magic cough drops and then opened his mouth to sing. All the family gathered around to admire his new accomplishment.

"Hee-haw, hee-haw, hee-haw," went Phil, for the drops Twelve Toes sent made him bray like a mule.

"Goodness!" cried Phil in disgust. "I'll have to send word to the Green Wizard to give me back my own voice. It's quite sweet and musical beside this. I've learned a good lesson. It's best to keep the gifts we have and be satisfied."

Winter Stars.

New York Herald

In childhood at rare times I climbed by night,
With my two brothers, a wide common where
Above us throbbed the lone immense of air
Pouring as plentitude of silent light.
The hands that held my own I grasped more tight,
And in my heart I breathed my bedtime prayer,
Bent down my conscious eyes, nor yet would dare
To lift them on that glittering, awful height—
Until I heard the whistling Wind arise;
Then, all at once, I seemed so well to know
How, up and up, it climbed to fan those skies—
My friendly Wind that shook the heavens, so.
And, to myself, I laughed to feel it blow
The flaming starlight keen against my eyes.

Above me reach the frosty fields of air,
Stripped of their leafy luxuries, the trees,
Their branches raised in splendor lattices.
The winter stars are up, the jeweled Chair,
The belted Hunter; yonder the Great Square,
The arrowy Swan; the glimmering Pleiades—
Oh I must cry the constancy of these—
The steadfastness that changeless holds them
For since those olden nights I climbed the hill
And trembled at their splendid, awful host,
All's changed within this human world of mine
And I amid vast loneliness am lost.
The Wind unfriendly has with me its will.
And Winter stars do but the colder shine.

TODAY'S RECIPES

BOILED PUDDING

By Bertha E. Shapleigh, of Columbia University

If pudding is to be cooked in a cloth have the cloth soaked thoroughly in hot water, wring dry, and cooled. The cloth should be dredger with flour so the pudding will not stick to it

The water in the pot must be boiling when the pudding is put in, and continue boiling the entire time, otherwise, the water would soak into the cloth, or the steam condense the water, and make the pudding heavy.

As the water boils away, always replenish with boiling water.

Never add cold water to kettle, as that will make the pudding heavy.

Local Stores Have Pleasing Array of Christmas Gifts

Only 20 days to do your Christmas shopping!

The grim specter of holiday shopping rises alike before amorous youths and hen-pecked dads who ever have to pay the price. For the delectation of happy recipients, however, local mercantile establishments have already received large quantities of gifts in all lines. Their stocks of holiday merchandise will be practically complete by the end of next week

Of special interest to the juvenile population are the toys Large quantities of these are now available at local stores. Most of them have been imported from Germany and it will be impossible to replace the articles when the stocks become low or run entirely out. Moreover, they were bought before the tariff law went into effect and would cost at least 30 per cent more on the market now.

Dolls, as usual, seem to be in the lead for bids of popularity. A pleasing variety of these is on hands at the department stores and other local establishments. Many novelties in this line have appeared on the market this season. Artistically colored rag dolls, some of them representing characters from juvenile stories are not uncommon, neither are those which cry and utter "mamma" in a very lifelike manner.

An assortment of mechanical toys well calculated to win the admiration of the typical American boys can be found at almost any of the department stores and toy shops.

If the ladies are slighted this year it certainly will not be the fault of local merchants, for surely a more complete stock of hand bags, handkerchiefs, jewelry and other objects of feminine admiration to haunt the swain torn between affection and a regard for his personal finances.

As a brief resume, it may be said that all the wants of Christmas shoppers may be filled right here in Middlesboro without the necessity of going elsewhere and that the managers of local stores have made a special effort this year to procure the quality of merchandise that will please their patrons. But the necessity of buying gifts early which offers advantages of selecting from a full and complete stock can not be too strongly impressed on the public mind.

BRICK WORK ON HIGH SCHOOL BUILDING DONE IN 10 DAYS

Brick work on the new high school building will be completed within a bout ten days, according to the construction superintendent, and it will then be ready for the composition roof.

It is estimated that, the weather permitting, the building will be entirely completed by the first of February. The total cost of the new edifice will probably exceed $75,000.

P. O. PREPARES FOR CHRISTMAS RUSH

Postmaster Urges Careful Wrapping and Early Mailing—Extra Force Added.

With the advent of December comes the opening of the Christmas season, and local postal authorities are now preparing for the inevitable deluge of packages that precedes the holiday immortalized by the blessed Saint Nicholas

The "address plainly, wrap securely and do your Christmas shopping early" slogan is now in full force and the public can render invaluable aid to post office employes by lending their hearty cooperation in the campaign.

"The public is rapidly becoming educated to the proper mailing and wrapping of packages," said Postmaster Chas E Cooke, "and also to the advantages of mailing Christmas presents early A few years ago we would receive three wagon loads of packages on the day before Christmas. Of course we could not get them all delivered and many people were disappointed because they did not receive their gifts on Christmas day."

Conditions were greatly improved dest year, however, he stated, there being no eleventh hour rush Only a very few packages were received in an unsatisfactory condition.

Although an extra clerk will be added to the force of employes at the local post office as well as an extra carrier, Mr Cooke hopes that as many patrons as possible will do their mailing early and observe other postal rules and by so doing render a mutual service to both the public and the post office.

Red Cross Christmas seals will be sold in the lobby of the post office this year, a recent change in the postal regulations permitting this.

CRUSADE AGAINST ANIMAL CRUELTY

Thousands Enlist In Attack On Inhuman Treatment Of All Dumb Beasts.

By Associated Press

Chicago, Dec. 1.—Twelve thousand Illinois men have been commissioned as special constables in one of the most highly organized anti-cruelty societies in the United States.

Formed four years ago as the department of constabulary of the State Society for Prevention of Cruelty and Apprehension of Horse and Automobile Thieves, the organization has extended into every county, and is now branching out in Indiana and Wisconsin under similar laws. There are already nearly a thousand members in each of those states.

Organized along semi-military lines, the constabulary forms an adjunct to the regular paid peace officers, ready to assist in any emergency, or to take charge in the absence of the regular authorities.

While the original purpose of the movement was to prevent cruelty and track horse and automobile thieves, the department now maintains automobile patrols, operates a special intelligence service to ferret out vice, gambling, bootlegging and other offenses, and furnishes men to keep order at fires and in other emergencies.

Among the cases brought by the constabulary, and now pending in Chicago courts, is one in which a large teaming contractor is accused of underfeeding 5000 horses. As a result of the society's work, according to Walter P. Stuart, general superintendent of constabulary, diseases overworked and underfed horses have practically been eliminated from Chicago.

The constabulary has a troop in every police precinct in Chicago, several in the outlying townships, and a troop in each downstate country, a total of 150 troops.

The maximum strength of each of the troops is one captain, four first lieutenants, sixteen second lieutenants and 224 constables, addition there is an inspector commanding each twenty divisions into which the state has been divided, and a county superintendent of the society in each county.

WOMEN LEGISLATE FOR GIRL WELFARE

Only Issue On Which Three Women On Minneapolis Legislature Agree.

By Associated Press

Minneapolis, Minn., Dec. 1.—Efforts in behalf of working girls and child welfare is the one issue upon which the first three women ever to represent Henneupin county (Minneapolis) in the Minnesota legislature are united, and for which they will work when the session begins next January.

Only one woman representative, Miss Myrtle Cain, of the 28th legislative district, has definite policies. Endorsed by the Farmer-Labor party which this year has elected a United States Senator, in Minnesota, and the Working Peoples Non-Partisan Political league, Miss Cain will support the platform of the two organizations. This calls for progressive farm legislation; relief to overburdened working girls in industry; opposition to the proposed state constabulary; repeal of the Brooks-Coleman law, which gave traction companies indeterminate franchises, and restoration of the direct primary which was replaced two years ago by the convention method.

Mrs. Mabeth Hurd Paige, wife of Prof. James Paige of the eUniversity of Minnesota law school, declared she would support child welfare and working girl legislation, although her main intention in seeking her seat in the state assembly from the 30th district was to get women in officee to help in making th elaws which govern both sexes. Admitted to the bar, and head of th Woman's Christian Association, an organization composed of 750 working girls, Mrs. Paige said she had the background for welfare and philanthropic work, and that she would "go to the legislature and work generally."

The third woman state solon, Mrs. Sue M. Dickey Hough, will put her her votes to industrial and welfare legislation, especially that which affects employed girls, and support progressive measures she state. Mrs. Hough is a real estate dealer. Miss Cain has been identified with labor organizations for several yeras, and her last position was organizer for the Minnesota Federationof Labor.

WORLD'S S. S. HEAD TO TOUR KENTUCKY

By Associated Press

LOUISVILLE, Nov. 28.—Arrangements have been completed for a ten day tour through Kentucky by W. C. Pearce, general secretary of the World's Sunday School Association, according to an announcement from the office of the Kentucky Sunday School Association here. Mr. Pearce is coming to Kentucky under the auspices of the State association and will be accompanied on his tour by Dr. G. A. Joplin, Sr., secretary of the Kentucky Sunday School organization.

The following itinerary was announced for the tour: Henderson, December 1; Owensboro, December 2; Providence, December 5; Princeton, December 6; Paducah, December 7 and 8; Louisville, afternoon December 10, and Shelbyville, night December 10. At the Shelbyville meeting all churches of that city will be united. Arrangements also may be made for a visit to Madisonville, Central City and Frankfort, it was said.

Mr. Pearce landed on the Pacific Coast on October 10, having completed a trip around the world in the interest of world childhood and youth. In the course of this trip he visited Spain, Italy, Greece, Constantinople, Egypt, India, Burma, Singapore, Australia, New Zealand, the Philippine Islands, China, Korea, and Japan. He has been an outstanding leader in the International Sunday School Association for twenty years and is widely known by reason of his activity in organization work, according to Dr. Joplin.

COLD WEATHER ADDS ZEST TO COAL BUSINESS

Many orders for coal have been placed during the past few days on account of the present cold wave, according to J. R. Ramey of the Log Mountain Coal company.

While a car shortage occasionally limits the output of the six mines operated by this company, the condition is not permanent and a shut-down of the mines for one day rarely results.

Mr. Ramey explained the cold snap had not raised the prices of fuel any The firm sells to retail dealers and to the railroad companies.

WHAT'S GOING ON IN THE WORLD

Theory of a Ship Subsidy.

When congress met in special session November 20, President Harding asked the Ship Subsidy Bill's passage.

The theory of a ship subsidy is this: Every country, let's assume, needs merchant ships, under its own flag, to deliver the goods it sells to other countries and to bring back the goods it buys from them

If a nation's ships can be run at a profit, then private concerns are sure to run them for the money there is in it.

But if, for some reason, they run persistently at a loss, private shipowners will quit and that nation's flag will disappear from the sea—

UNLESS—

Their government makes up their losses to the owners, plus enough more to pay them fair dividends

Subsidy advocates say ships are so important that it is better for a country to do this than to lose its merchant marine.

When the United States entered the world war the government began to build merchant ships—"feverishly, extravagantly, wastefully, impractically," Harding says.

The war's end found the country with a large merchant fleet, so built, at a cost of $3,000,000,000 to $4,000,-

Since then the government has been running these vessels either directly or through private companies acting as its agents.

The loss on them, Harding says, is $50,000,000 annually.

He wants to dispose of them to private owners. But they won't be accepted if they must be run at a loss It is to cover this loss that the president proposes a subsidy

He estimates it at a maximum of $30,000,000 annually.

Subsidy opponents say the plan simply is to tax the rest of the people for the shipowners' benefit. Thep oppose supporting any business that cannot pay its own way. Better, they argue, let the fleet go and return to the old system of doing our shipping under other flags than our own.

The commonest opinion seems to be that the Subsidy bill may pass the House o Representatives but that its chance in the Senate are none too good.

Blame The Tiger Himself

Ex-Premier Clemenceau of France is making speeches in the United States emphasizing Europe's needs of American aid.

Personally he was welcomed warmly but much fault has been found with the European view he presents. Many Americans appear to hold Clemenceau himself, by the policies he has supported, largely responsible for the Old World troubles he describes Senators Hitchcock and Borah, for instance, are men of widely different views Hitchcock led the fight for the League of Nations. Borah led the fight against it. Yet they agree in criticizing Clemenceau.

Hitchcock says:

"France's reparations demands against Germany are impossible. Cooperation between Americans and the French so long as the present destructive French policy prevails."

Borah says:

"Clemenceau brings no message except vengeance, anticipated war. The same European policies which caused the conflict in 1914 are hatching afresh strife."

Labor Threatens King.

England's parliament met in extra session to an accompaniment of startling language.

King George was present to read his usual message. There was a good deal of pomp and ceremony Ramsey MacDonald, Labor leader, referred to this as a "tomfool show"

The extra session was called to consider Irish legislation but it became evident immediately that the unemployment situation will get first attention.

"And if we don't get satisfaction," said MacDonald, "there are plenty of precedents in this country for revolution. We will have," he added; addressing the king, "to deal with you as Cromwell dealt with your predecessors."

Cromwell cut off the first King Charles' head.

It was astonishing talk for the floor of the House of Commons, considering how respectfully royalty is mentioned there, even by members who do not regard kingship very sacredly.

Diplomats Somewhat Perturbed.

The conference at Lausanne, Switzerland, theoretically to make peace between Turkey and Greece but really to settle the victorious Turk's status in the Near East, is bothering the diplomats.

In fact, it means much more than the Turkish question.

Turkey wants to include Russia in the conference, since for the time being, their interests are the same. England's representatives argued that Russia has nothing to do with the Lausanne negotiations. Then neither has the United States, answered the Turks. The British, French and Italians all want Americans present, even if only unofficially. So it is quite likely that Russia will be admitted too.

Many diplomats think the conference will prove to be(principally, a contest between England and Turkey for control of the Dardenallas. England wants to dominate this strait as a commercially important waterway and because it opens the route between India and the British Isles. The same strait is Russia's only sea outlet which is icefree the year round.

Viscount Grey, an the English House of Lords, has given warning already of the danger of a combination between Germany, Russia and Turkey

REFORMERS IN ENGLAND OPPOSE NIGHT CAFES

By Associated Press

London, Dec. 1—London clearly is getting back to the bright night life of before the war, for there is an enormous rush just now to secure licenses for night cafes, music and dance halls, and other resorts where the light hearted were wont to foregather in the old days

But the churches and the welfare organizations are protesting. They urge that London has lived four years without such establishments, and that that it is not necessary for them to be reopened now

Glass of Salts Cleans Kidneys

If your Back hurts or Bladder bothers you, drink lots of water.

When your kidneys hurt and your back feels sore, don't get scared and proceed to load your stomach with a lot of drugs that excite the kidneys and irritate the entire urinary tract

Keep your kidneys clean like you keep your bowels clean, by flushing them with a mild, harmless salts which helps to remove the body's urinous waste and stimulate them to their normal activity. The function of the kidneys is to filter the blood. In 24 hours they strain from it 500 grains of acid and waste, so we can readily understand the vital importance of keeping the kidneys active.

Drink lots of water—you can't drink too much; also get from any pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate clogged kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in urine so it is no longer a source of irritation, thus often ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; can not injure, makes a delightful effervescent lithia water drink, which everyone should take now and then to help keep their kidneys clean and active Try this; also keep up the water drinking, and no doubt you will wonder what became of your kidney trouble and backache.

RUSSIAN SOVIET OFFICIALS TIRE OF LONG HOURS

By Associated Press.

Moscow, Dec. 1.—Night work, which was so popular among the soviet commissioners and various government chiefs when communism was at its height, is gradually disappearing as part of the program of the new economic policy. The work of the various officials has been distributed in part to others, and it is no longer necessary for them to labor fifteen and eighteen hours out of every twenty-four.

Nikolai Lenine the premier, since his return to office after a six months rest in the country made necessary by illness, occasionally works in the evenings, but not all the night as formerly. George Tchitcherin, commissar of foreign affairs, who in the old days never finished work until five or six o'clock in the morning, also works in the evenings seven days a week, but he usually finishes along toward midnight. hours nowadays are from ten or eleven o'clock in the morning to nine or ten at night, with a few hours off in the late afternoon for dinner.

PANCHO VILLA DECLINES TO WRITE HIS MEMOIRS

Mexico City, Dec. 1.—Pancho Villa erstwhile bandit and now a gentleman farmer in the state of Durango, has declined to write his memoirs, although an American publishing company is said to have offered him $50,000 for the manuscript.

Villa is reported to have told the publishers that he has no desire to perpetuate the estory of his adventures, but rather prefers that his children, now small, hear of his father's exploits as a rancher and benefactor.

MANY FROM HERE SEE GAME AT KNOXVILLE YESTERDAY

Thirty-five or forty persons from Middlesboro and twice that many from Pineville went to Knoxville yesterday to attend the Kentucky-Tennessee football game. The game, which ended with a score 14 to 7 in favor of Tennessee, was a thrilling one, and though most of the Bell county delegation was rooting for Kentucky, they had no kick coming on the game itself.

Most of the crowd went by train, but several cars drove through, the trip taking a litte more than three hours. Two detours from the main road and a bad strip near Maynardsville marred an otherwise smooth highway from here to Knoxville by Tazewell, the road generally followed.

WOMEN OF CUBA AGAIN SEEKING FRANCHISE

By Associated Press.

Havana, Cuba, Dec. 1.—Removal of one word "males" from the Cuban constitution is all that the National Suffragist Party asks of congress.

Stating it has waited until after the elections of November to make its request, the organization has addressed a petition to President Zayas, asking him to include in his first message to the new congress a recommendation that the offending word be blotted out action would admit women to the polls.

At one special session and two regular sessions of congress held since the president took office in May, 1921, the equal suffrage issue has been successfully dodged.
